Economics

You are to write a report on the current state of the UK economy, including the changes that it has undergone over the past ten years. You should include sections on the following areas:-

Inflation

Interest rates

Unemployment rate

The Balance of Payments

Government Spending and Borrowing

House Prices

Each section should include a definition and graph-based evidence. You should have some analysis on if that area of the economy is showing a positive outlook or not and why you think that. You should also include a final section on any special/unusual occurrences that have happened to the UK economy in that time. Finally, you should end with a significant conclusion section, on your overall judgement about the UK economy.
